

ASSISTANT PROFESSORS, CLINICAL PSYCHOLOGY.

The Department of Psychology at the University of Georgia (www.uga.edu/psychology) is seeking to fill two tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in Clinical Psychology beginning fall 2022. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in Clinical Psychology. Preference will be given to applicants who are licensed or license eligible to practice psychology in Georgia.

Competitive candidates will have an established and strong record of research with potential for external funding and be prepared to contribute to the instructional mission of the department and clinical program at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Area of research is open, but we are particularly interested in applicants who demonstrate a continued commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion. We particularly encourage applications from individuals who identify as BIPOC (Black, Indigenous, and People of Color), disabled, and/or LGBTQ+. It is likely that one hire will focus more on adults and the other will focus more on children.

Our clinical program has a clinical science model and we are accredited by APA and the Psychological Clinical Science Accreditation System (PCSAS). Successful applicants will join a nationally prominent and productive clinical research faculty and a department interested in promoting the careers of junior faculty. Collaboration with faculty in our other doctoral programs is encouraged. Established collaborative associations with the Owens Institute for Behavioral Research, the Institute of Gerontology, the Bioimaging Research Center, and the Biomedical and Health Sciences Institute offer excellent research development opportunities.

Athens, Georgia is well known for its quality of life, with easy access to both outdoor and urban activities (exploregeorgia.org). UGA is a land and sea grant institution located in Athens, 65 miles northeast of Atlanta, the state capital (www.visitathensga.com; www.uga.edu).

The Franklin College of Arts and Sciences, its many units, and the University of Georgia are committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty and students, and sustaining a work and learning environment that is inclusive. Women, minorities and people with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The University is an EEO/AA/Vet/Disability Institution. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation or protected veteran status.

Candidates should apply at <https://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/228685> and include a curriculum vitae; statements of research and teaching interests; representative publications; and a statement that addresses past, current, or potential future contributions to diversity and inclusion. Candidates will be asked to provide the names and email for three references who can provide letters of recommendation. All applications received by December 5, 2021 will receive full consideration. Review will continue until positions are filled.